Dear Sir/Madam

Hinkley Point C and Associated Development.

Thank you for your letter of 19 August 2010, which I am replying to on behalf of my colleague Mark Wilson.

Since we will be considering any future application, we cannot comment on the merits of the proposal. These are likely to be the subject of an examination into the application, if it is accepted by the IPC. If and when the application is accepted, you will have an opportunity to register to take part in the examination. Publicity in the local and national press and on site notices will explain how you can register to become an interested party by making a relevant representation.

If you have any views on the proposal at this stage, you may wish to make this known to EDF Energy directly and also let your local authority know. We are happy to be copied into any correspondence of this nature.

Yours sincerely

Robert Ranger
Case Officer

The IPC gives advice about applying for an order granting development consent or making representations about an application (or a proposed application). The IPC takes care to ensure that the advice we provide is accurate. This communication does not however constitute legal advice upon which you can rely and you should note that IPC lawyers are not covered by the compulsory professional indemnity insurance scheme. You should obtain your own legal advice and professional advice as required.

We are required by law to publish on our website a record of the advice we provide and to record on our website the name of the person or organisation who asked for the advice. We will however protect the privacy of any other personal information which you choose to share with us and we will not hold the information any longer than is necessary.

You should note that we have a Policy Commitment to Openness and Transparency and you should not provide us with confidential or commercial information which you do not wish to be put in the public domain.
