Dear Sir or Madam

Thank you for your letter of 22 June 2017 raising concerns regarding the pre-application consultation process for the proposed Wylfa Newydd Nuclear Power Station.

As the project has not yet been submitted to the Planning Inspectorate (the Inspectorate), the Inspectorate has no formal powers to intervene on consultees behalf. I would therefore encourage you to contact the developer directly to make your concerns heard as the Applicant has a statutory duty to take your views into account. However, if you feel that your comments are not being taken into account, I would advise you to write to your local authority and set out why you think the Applicant is failing to conduct its consultation properly. Your comments will be taken into account when the local authority sends the Inspectorate its comments on whether the Applicant has fulfilled its consultation duties. The local authority's comments on the Applicant's consultation will be taken into account when the Acceptance Inspector makes his/her decision whether to accept the application for examination.

A copy of your correspondence has been placed on our records and will be presented to the Inspector at acceptance together with the application documents and local authorities' comments on the applicant's consultation.

After the decision has been made regarding whether to accept the application for examination, your letter will be published on our website together with all documents used to inform the decision.

If the application for development consent is formally accepted you will be able to submit your views in relation to the project which will be considered by the Examining Authority during the examination.

The Inspectorate has published a series of advice notes which explain the examination process, including information on how to get involved; of particular interest are advice notes 8.1 to 8.5. These are available at:
