Dear Mr Wilkinson,

Thank you for your email to Sizewell C regarding EDF's advertising.

I understand from your correspondence with BEIS that what they have agreed to do is clarify in their table that zero carbon in relation to nuclear refers to the point at which the energy is generated. That is precisely the same point we that we make in our advertisements – and so we remain completely aligned with the latest clarification from BEIS.

We believe that it is entirely legitimate and important to highlight this like for like point of generation comparison between wind, nuclear and solar with gas and coal – especially as it is based on recognised official data. We welcome the fact that BEIS are seeking to improve the clarity of the data even further, which will make it even more compelling and credible, and this is very much supported by us.

We hope this clarifies our position.

Yours sincerely,

Tom McGarry
