

My partner and I have lived and worked all our lives in a busy town in Kent. We had the opportunity to retire early at age 55 and decided to move into the countryside with our elderly parents. We are enjoying the beauty and peace of the area, the wildlife, the forests and woodlands, the rivers and the big sky. It is an amazing place to care for your mental health. Solar farms DO NOT belong in the countryside, they belong on industrial sites, roof spaces etc, not in areas of natural beauty! We have learnt from COP 26 and COP 27 that we need our green spaces to reduce our carbon footprint. We need to listen to people like the wonderful David Attenborough who teaches us that this is a target that we have to meet.
