Attention: Sunnica Ltd

I do not want solar farms nor wind turbines in the green fields of England. If private homes wish to have them on their roofs or a windmill on their property, that's their choice, but not on wider public landscapes.

This:

... is utter nonsense; in effect [REDACTED].

There is NO climate emergency, and if there was, it is not anthropogenic and there's little we could do about it. Stop lying to children, as Sir David Attenborough has been doing for years. I had to watch Life On Earth for science homework as a boy in the late 1970's. It was boring then and plain propaganda now.

[REDACTED] Oil is renewable; wells rejuvenate over time. I do not take to the streets nor shout at buildings, but I am so fed up with this [REDACTED] climate nonsense, I will raise a pitchfork in support of farmers if necessary. You are forcing policy upon us and it is getting to the point whereby we will have no choice but fight for our livelihoods and lives.

Yours Sincerely,
Ned
J. N. Clarke.
