2. Draft Development Consent Order (DCO)

Natural England notes that the Project Environmental Statement (ES) has based assessments on an operational lifetime of 30 years. Similarly, our advice and considerations on this project thus far have been based on the proposed operational lifetime within the ES. However, we note that the draft Development Consent Order (DCO) does not include any condition or requirement that would allow enforcement of an end date. A similar issue with the lack of an enforceable end date was raised within Natural England's response to Outer Dowsing Offshore Wind Farm Deadline 6 (Natural England's cover letter Point 5). Given the assumptions made within the Project ES Natural England considers that there will be a need for a robust process to assess any extension to the operational life of the Project, such as through a variation or a new licence process, or other appropriate regulatory process.

Therefore, we advise that an operational end date of 30 years is included within the Deemed Marine Licence (dML), which we understand to be aligned with standard best practice for all non-Offshore wind marine licences. We note that this is a new issue raised during the Examination process of North Falls and have included it as an additional row within the updated Risks and Issues Log tab A.

For awareness, we note during discussions on this matter with the MMO, that this has highlighted a potential cross cutting issue with offshore windfarm marine licences. Natural England considers that there is a benefit to including an end date of the operational phase within the DCO/dML to ensure that it is clear that any repowering etc. would be subject to a new consent or variation, which would also require a full reassessment of impacts. Natural England notes this is also supported by the MMO. For awareness, Natural England will also be advising the inclusion of an operational end date on the dML for all OWF NSIPs Applications currently in examination.

For any gueries relating to the content of this letter please contact me using the details provided below.

Yours faithfully,
