

Dear Sir/Madam, nothing I have seen or read justifies this destruction of our countryside, village life and general wellbeing local residents have enjoyed for centuries. The project is being forced to provide energy when serious other considerations should be made as alternatives do exist at lesser costs. There cannot be any sensible justification for destroying farm land, natural habitats and ruining residents lives for what will be an eyesore of panels completely destroying the landscape. Why is this being pushed through at a fast pace without seriously considering the viewpoint of hundreds of angry dwellers who can visualise the impact and feel very embittered about the future? The anticipated effect on local people caused by increases in heavy road traffic and potential congestion, noise and road degradation will be a constant worry for many villagers. In my view there has been minimal justification supporting such a vast project to create energy versus the negative impact on council tax payers lives, homes and surroundings. Graham Holgate.
