Dear Sir/Madame!

I wish for this email to be included in the anti Tillbridge Solar Project, please

I had an occasion to walk through the picturesque village of SPRINGTHORPE and its surrounded farming scene. The idea was to familiarise myself with the area as I'm pondering my final abode as I'm reaching older age. I happened to spy the poster concerning this possible solar farm. I just couldn't believe that good farming land is to be given up to solar panels. This country of England is becoming over populated. We need as much space as possible to grow more food. I realised that the poor residents of Springthorpe are to be affected mentally and physically with the disruption of this installation, the continued up keep and most of all the fear of battery fires. Having spoken to a number of villagers who were retired and enjoying their daily exercise in the peace of delightful surroundings all said to this effect: 'we shall not be able to enjoy a peaceful pleasure such as walking when that damned solar farm is built. It will be the end of our daily routine and us'. My mind was made up, I shall not be retiring to this village. I have seen an uncontrollable electric car on fire, I would not like my mind being filled with thoughts of those lorry sized batteries exploding.

There are countless large industrial warehouses around this country, please put the panels on these and similar structures, don't destroy peaceful parts of this troubled country.

Yours with deep concern,

Susan Durrant
