

BESS Lithium batteries make a lot of hydrogen fluoride gas when they burn. Hydrogen fluoride becomes hydrofluoric acid on contact with moisture, like the moisture in your lungs. The smoke can easily turn large portions of your lungs into scar tissue permanently, or worse. Also consider the run off from water used by the fire services to try and extinguish the fire.