

First of all I would like to endorse all of the pertinent questions Callum Millar MP has asked. Especially making sure the funding is there to actually finish this huge development without causing tremendous upheaval and distress to both the landscape and the people living in the areas affected.

I live in the centre of Cassington with its 900 year old church, Grade 1 listed.

The effect of this monstrous solar farm both here and in the surrounding areas has taken no account, not only of people like me but experts in the field , such as English Heritage.

The developers have failed to answer specific questions on the important issue of flooding and in fact have not answered many specific questions when asked to do so. This is worrying with such a large development as it does not build confidence in the proposals.

We are trying to make our voices heard. When you have countryside that millions come to visit every year from all over the world, turning it into, what in effect will be, a huge sheet of metal makes no sense. Basically without more detailed information from the developers I feel it shouldn't be allowed to go ahead.
