The current applicants are making a mockery of the planning process and of the right of residents to clarity of the effects of a successful outcome.

We are the ones who are going to live with this misplaced proposal, but feel that the applicants are trying to extend, and wriggle out of issues which they find detrimental to their profitability. The whole proposal now needs to be termed failed because of the inadequacy of the responses given to date, after the applicants have been given long enough to make a proper case.
