BOTLEY WEST SOLAR FARM

Dear Sir

To my dismay and utter disbelief, I have just heard that Photovolt Development Partners (PVDP) are planning new submissions with regard to the proposed Botley West Solar Farm. Please do NOT allow this. In my opinion this is yet another example of PVDP's disregard for local residents and the Planning Inspectorate, i.e. they ignore them. The company have had ample time to prepare their case and under no circumstances should they be allowed to submit data beyond the already extended deadline and to which objectors/concerned parties have had no chance to respond. Residents are expected to keep to the deadlines, so why not the company?

If this is an example of how PVDP operates, the company should not be allowed carry out such a large and complex operation as the construction of this solar farm which will affect the lives of many local residents, especially as basic questions still remain around ownership, financing and delivery of this company.

Enough is enough! Please do not accept submissions from PVDP made after the deadline of 9 June.

Yours faithfully

Hilary Owen
