PROTECTING WILDLIFE . ECOLOGICAL HARM

I have had grave concerns from the beginning on the above issues.

I agree with Natural England's objection that this cannot go ahead.

BotleyWest fails all four of the Horlock Rules.

The immense harm cannot be balanced against public benefit.

In my opinion the immense damage this industrial project would cause to a sensitive and important environment was always totally underestimated by the developers and never properly addressed.

AIRPORT SAFETY.

Another area not properly addressed.

I live under the flight path of the busy London Oxford Airport. There are 70,000 trading flight a year.

Issues not properly addressed are Glint and Glare, Turbulence, Safety.
No previous consultation with some of the big training companies operating there.
