To The Secretary of State,

I heard today that the applicant is intending to make a further submission after their deadline of 9 June. I have already responded below to the information submitted by the applicant before the deadline, in good time for the deadline for responses by interested parties. The applicant has had ample time to make submissions and carry out appropriate examinations as requested by others and should have done this in the time frame requested by yourself. I would expect any response sent by myself or other interested parties after our deadline to be disregarded and would expect the same to apply to the applicant.

If there are further submissions by the applicant then I and other interested parties will not have the time or opportunity to consider or respond to these and this is not democratic. I therefore respectfully request that you should not consider any submissions from the applicant received after this date.

Katherine Rogers
