Hello,

I not going into the detail as I'm sure it has been reiterated a thousand times but I simply will never understand the total insanity of going to such extremes with fields of Solar Panels over looking the one really attractive view into Oxford!!! We are all still navigating uncharted waters when it comes to the best most efficient ways to produce energy in a country that can have great weather one year and then nothing but rain another!!!

Don't fall for the money making opportunists who will end up leaving scars all over the prettiest areas of our historic City.

Regards

Carrie Carter
