

I submit a formal objection to the whole proposal. This application will industrialise a vast rural landscape popular as a 'Stepping Out' walking area. The solar panels etc will be sourced from China, no doubt using dubious mining practices and coal fired power stations in their production and then transported around the world by heavy oil consuming ships. They will require replacing after several years, therefore handing China our energy security, no difference to using Russian oil. Our food security is as important and the use of such a vast amount of productive farmland negates such a goal. The impact on the local environment and wildlife with traffic, noise and light pollution will be unacceptable and affect property prices negatively. These firms only look at taxpayer subsidies and profit, most of which goes abroad, and have no interest in the needs of the local population.
