

Pear Tree Solar

Peartree Hill Solar Farm <PeartreeHillSolarFarm@planninginspectorate.gov.uk>

Dear Inspectorate

I am writing with regards to plans by developers like Clean Air Solar and the Humber Wood proposals — along with this scheme Pear Tree Hill — risk transforming huge swathes of East Yorkshire countryside into industrial-scale solar estates, further depleting an already struggling landscape and its wildlife. Concentrated siting of projects can fragment habitats, reduce biodiversity, and alter the rural character unless developments are scaled back, placed on brownfield land where possible, and paired with meaningful habitat restoration, and strong local engagement and environmental safeguards.

Without these we risk becoming a test ground of glass and dangerous BESS batteries.

Yours sincerely

Alan Higgs
