

I am a resident of East Claydon. I have in the past worked in agriculture and have always enjoyed the countryside. I am against this industrialisation of this vast tract of Buckinghamshire countryside changing from sustainable, productive agricultural land into an ugly profit making scheme. No matter how much "mitigation" is promised by the applicant it will not change what it is.

The sickening thought that for a quick profit this project which will not produce our energy needs but will only produce whilst the sun shines not when we need the power most over winter. We need a reliable source to produce electricity not this destructive method that I'm sure will be out dated very shortly.

Bess is a short term storage to take advantage of cheap overnight power to be sold back to the grid at a profit and during sunny days for solar storage. The community are very concerned by the safety of bess and potential pollution risks to our countryside.

Our open countryside should be preserved as we will be losing the ability to walk ride or cycle in this beautiful part of the country. It is acknowledged that being able to enjoy fresh air, bird song and a green landscape is beneficial for everyone's mental health.

I hope this application does not succeed as I fear we will be regretting it for decades.
