

I regret not being able to appear at the recent hearing on 24/25 February as I have been very unwell [REDACTED]. My family & I have gained great strength from and much enjoyment from walking the footpaths and admiring the scenery ever since we moved to the Claydons over 40 years ago. The thought of this wonderful land being covered in harsh solar panels is heart breaking, and seems to contradict all that we admire about the British countryside. Please do not grant permission for the building of this monstrous solar farm.

The noise of installation and operation will completely ruin the peace and tranquility of our home and our surroundings. I implore you not to grant permission for this destructive installation.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Cooper-Evans
