

I remain totally opposed to the application

It will cause gross environmental and agricultural loss and will add cumulative damage to the area from other large projects such as E/W rail, HS2 and battery storage of particular worry is fire risk and noise and gross disruption during construction.

It is also increasingly obvious that it will be surplus to requirements as there are many more projects than the grid can handle- so decimating a local area needlessly