

Dear Sirs,

I am writing to explain our reservations about the plans for a new power station.

First of all can I mention that we have received no correspondence about this application since it was first proposed.

We were told in the meeting this morning that over 200 residents in this area were personally visited in February 2025 and invited to view plans etc. of new station and only 10 turned up.

We directly face the proposed sight and neither ourselves or our near neighbours were visited last February.

After speaking to two local estate agents their opinion is that our property would be devalued if this build goes ahead.

My neighbour tells me she lived through the build of the present power station and realise there will be a great deal of noise, pollution and putrid smells. There was also periods of no electricity and water. My husband and I talked about downsizing because [REDACTED] and worry about selling our property as we directly face the proposed sight.

Height of new cooling towers and buildings that look like concrete blocks will be an eyesore.

We would welcome a visit from yourselves as we missed out on this last February.

Yours Sincerely

[REDACTED]
