

I fully support Stop Limedown's campaign to stop this solar farm.

The solar farm is not needed. The 100s of new homes Limedown claims it can supply with power are also not needed as there are only a relatively few people on the local housing waiting list.

Farmland is more important, how else will we get our food and keep land and countryside maintained and well balanced.

Water supply is a reason to block this application. Water can only come from the sky as rain!. Work out how much water one household needs for one day, (even for one toilet flush of 7 litres) then multiply it by 365, there is not enough water for the million odd homes the Governments wants to be built.

So stop Limedown.

The company is not even British. It will benefit financially to the detriment of the Malmebury area.

Solar farms can also be a problem to maintain. And what happens to the equipment when it comes to the end of its life?

Reject the application once and for all.
