

The plan to industrialise nearly 3000 acres of good and versatile agricultural land surrounding tiny villages makes no sense at all. This precious land will never be able to be used for growing crops ever again. To be truly green we should be growing as much food as possible and importing less. We shall all be long gone when the monstrosities that solar panels are, are no longer of any use and have to be disposed off, hardly green! The natural habitats will never recover from the destruction of the countryside. The upheaval and impact on people in these villages and the wildlife will be immense. Public rights of way have always been of utmost importance and now, for the sake of profit and greed of a company that will have no interest in these small communities will be totally disregarded. The mental well being of people of all ages will definitely be affected. Walking costs nothing and to walk through fields, along hedgerows, alone or in company is often the best tonic for people with stress and anxiety. This blatant bulldozing over the welfare of residents is callous and dangerous. Roads are narrow with many bends and turns; how many accidents are going to occur over the two years this awful decision will take, destroying the countryside, peace and wellbeing of local people? Anyone you speak to here or anywhere else will say 'Why are they intent on destroying countryside and farmland whilst erecting enormous warehouses, building thousands of new houses, and all without solar on their rooftops?' A government chasing unrealistic targets without any compassion or understanding of the huge effect it will have on so many people lives. We also know that none of us will feel any financial (cheaper electricity) benefit when the whole landscape has been industrialised. Do not insult us by calling it a farm!!
