Dear Sir/Madam – I live in [REDACTED] Nethergate, - along the route of the proposed construction of the East Pye solar works. I have been away with my charity in Peru and will be leaving again in 3 weeks. Therefore I have missed various chances to hear and attend meetings.

However. I do, of course, feel very strongly AGAINST East Pye's ideas of destroying the middle of our village in order to enable their huge machinery to pass through; ruining ancient walls outside people's houses, including listed buildings.

Is there still a "form" which I can fill in or shall I just write here?

I cannot understand how anyone, engineer or 5yr old school pupil, can think it's ok to wipe out the centre of our village in the course of constructing such an offensive piece of engineering.

Why hasn't someone in gov't suggested and insisted upon solar panels going on all viable public buildings – like car parks, warehouses, railway stations etc?

Norfolk is largely an agricultural community – you can't use all our local farmlands rendering them useless for the production of food.

I never thought I would ever be writing about something that is so astonishingly obvious – and why is anyone even thinking about joining in with/encouraging a company whose backer used to be associated with Thames Water: look how "well" that went?.

You or whoever is behind this, should be ashamed of themselves.

Yours faithfully
Jill Bignell MBE
