

The applicant National Grid keeps moving the goal posts regarding their proposed use of the old hover port on Pegwell Bay. They have made at least two major changes since the start of this process without presenting these changes to the local community. They are also lying to the local community about where the Converter Station is to be located. In their last two Community Updates they say this is to be built near Minster Marshes when in fact it is to be built on Minster Marshes. I believe the whole planning application should start again and to include building the Converter Station offshore. NG say that the work will take 4 years even though they have increased the size of the Converter Station since their original plan this to is a lie. Why 4 years? Because 2026 + 4 is Ed Miliband's 2030 Net Zero vanity project date. Regardless of whether you approve or disapprove Sea Link your boss will overturn your decision because he has already given NG the thumbs up. This is not about science, common sense or the environment this is about one man's ill conceived plan versus normal democratic processes. No one in their right mind would allow a private business to destroy a wet marsh and a place of natural beauty but this is what is being proposed. National Grid has already had one go at digging up Pegwell Bay and the damage is still there for all to see and now they want to do another job. This is totally unacceptable and the fact that you are still considering this shows just how corrupt the democratic process has become in this country. Shame on you if this project is given the green light.
