

I have no idea if this is the section I should use to make my comments, but that is my point - the system you have designed is over technical and complicated so acts as a barrier for effective local engagement. As an ordinary person I don't have the time or knowledge to plough through your convoluted consultation process. My comment is that you have failed to design a system that allows for effective local engagement and hence this process feels like nothing more than a sham.