

Having listened to the many comments made at the open meetings I am finding it very hard to find anything of merit in the current proposals. Whilst it would appear to add nothing of any value to the area it would certainly bring a huge amount of detrimental results. That it is already grossly overdeveloped with an infrastructure, particularly the roads, that is already unable to cope the addition of the heavy machinery that would be necessary for this project to go ahead, could make it almost unusable for many residents. Services and work still need to be accessed and it would appear that this aspect has not been taken into consideration. It would also make it more difficult for holidaymakers to enjoy what facilities we still have but would also take away facilities that are of importance to residents and wildlife. On the one hand we are told how important wildlife is and on the other, as soon as money is involved this importance seems to be able to be disregarded. It was also interesting to hear from those who have worked the land for many years of the problems in dealing with the type of land it is intended to build on and the problems that doing so could make. I am not knowledgeable enough to know what effect it might also have on tides but it would appear this is something else that should be taken into account. There are many other aspects that I am not able to cover here but it would seem that this project is only of benefit to National Grid and their shareholders, and this is not a suitable place for it, we are being told that wild places are important and this is an area that is supposed to be protected please help to protect it.
