

I've been a regular visitor to the hoverport, along with my wife, for 10 years. We visit by bicycle and on foot and enjoy the incredible ambience, the peace, and the bird and wildlife spotting opportunities including seals, curlews, egrets and many other species. We often visit twice per week, rarely missing at least one weekly visit.

There has been a lack of transparency in the approach to this infrastructure project. We have proposal received letters very rarely, and these only contain generic overviews with no mention of the real, damaging impact of a project of this scale on a fragile ecosystem.

Heavy machinery will be unavoidable, which will be catastrophic for the natural habitat, and it will completely ruin the enjoyment of visiting this unique location.

This project would lead to the loss of a wonderful amenity, destroying the thriving nature.

I completely 100% object to this project, and consider it an ill advised cash generation scheme, benefiting a small amount of shareholders, with scant regard to a ruggedly beautiful and unique environment.
