Dear Sirs,

I have written many times before to object to this poorly thought out project - but in light of new information that the project has not considered a solution, costing under £300 million, and delivering the same results, which lessens the environmental impact, let alone the impact on the residents of Suffolk Coastal I am writing again. This solution should be properly examined before there is further wastage with this current HS2- like project costing £3.2 billion. PLEASE can someone here see sense ?

Yours faithfully

Maryanne Nicholls
