

Submission ID: S677D3FB9

I find it hard to believe that historic England (owned by the Government) has not made a comment on the DCO. What is the point of listed houses if the organisation designed to protect them fails to do that by not commenting on pylons