Re the report of the advisory mission, I agree that the scheme would have an adverse impact and that a southern bypass should be further explored.

National Highways has reiterated a scheme which is clearly unacceptable.

The High Court judgment quashed the DCO in part because the Transport Secretary had not given proper consideration to alternatives. National Highways' response fails to alleviate any of the above concerns.

I continue to object to the proposals and hope that the scheme will be abandoned.

Surely in the coming years we should be looking at less road use in order to fulfil our climate targets. To blatantly carve in to our archeological heritage as yet only partly explored seems short sighted in the extreme.
