As a resident of Birchington I write to express my deep concern that anyone would consider building houses on precious land that has been an airport for 100 years.

My husband and I are in our 70/80 s and although we would not be the beneficiaries of the re-generation and jobs the airport will provide for the younger generation, we wish with all our hearts that Riveroak will succeed for the future of Thanet. The area has very few prospects for young people and they move away to find work. We need the airport especially now Brexit is imminent. Air freight will bring much needed goods into the South East for distribution around the country.

Thousands of houses each having two cars would clog our roads and put strain on the already stretched Doctors Hospital, Dentists, Schools, also the water situation is a great concern with little or no work for the inhabitants unless they commute on the railway.

This great opportunity comes once in a life time we must think of the future generation and not let them down.

Yours sincerely
Margaret Cook
