Dear Sirs and Madams,

I am extremely concerned about the proposed increase in flights to and from Gatwick Airport.

The increase in aircraft noise will negatively impact many people living in the area, and the proposed option of Gatwick Airport buying the properties is badly thought out. Even if it was reasonable to ask people to move away from their local area, we have a housing crisis in this country, which can only be exacerbated by emptying existing houses.

In addition, the impact on the environment of increased flights can only be bad. We should be discouraging people from travelling by air more often. Climate change is real, and is accelerating. It is madness to consider an expansion in flights, when we should be reducing them.

Yours faithfully
